Caitlin A. Quinn's short fiction has appeared in over a dozen online and print publications, including NEW MILLENNIUM WRITINGS (2024 Fiction Winner), IDENTITY THEORY, MEAT FOR TEA, and FICTION ON THE WEB.

She is an alumna of Stony Brook University's selective BookEnds novel fellowship program, where she worked under the mentorship of Meg Wolitzer, Susan Scarf Merrell, and Stephanie Gangi, and she was awarded a Fulbright for her scholarship in Celtic studies.

She currently lives in Northern California with her partner and two badly behaved Airedale terriers.
